Tree Climbing

by Elsbeth K. (Teepee)
Tree climbing is one of my most favorite activities here at camp. I love to climb under the bright green leaves that shield my body from the blazing hot sun. It also is very refreshing when the wind softly blows on you when you are high up in the branches of the tree. Tree climbing is very fun, but you can get blisters from the ropes you use to climb the tree. It hurts a bit, but when you get to the top of the tree the view of Whippoorwill is stunning and it will all be worth it. Tree climbing is the best, and it will always be one of my favorite camp activities.

It's Raining Snakes!

by Lauren G. (Teepee)
During first period on Monday in creek play campers started saying they saw snakes. They lifted up the bridge and what did they see? A knotted up, non-poisonous, hurt-looking snake! After the snake was removed, campers found lots of eggs. They had little spots. They looked like snake eggs. They had already hatched. Immediately after, they found what could be one of the baby snakes. It had circular eyes which means non-poisonous. He was small. Another snake was found near the tree! Another baby snake!

The Zombie Squid Apocalypse

By Saul S., Luc B., and Max S. (Teepee)

It was a dark night at the bottom of the ocean. All of the squids with yummy brains were snug in their homes. That morning all of the squids swam about, not noticing that a coffin was open. L'il Sammy the squeaky, slimy, sleek, smart squid noticed that his parents weren't acting the same. In fact, they were acting like zombies! L'il Sammy was about to leave, when Bob the "dead" squid and his parents jumped out at him. The last thing he felt was a crunching sound coming from his head. Then the world went blank.

The Bypass by Iliana (Teepee)

A bypass is a place where people from Point A would want to get to Point B in a rush and the people at Point B would want to get to Point A in a rush too. But then people from Point C would wonder why Point A & B were so special. But then a husband wanted a house with axes on the door but that would be at Point D and his wife wanted a house with a rose hill at Point E. This could go on endlessly. Think about it.

Arctic Fox by Zoe S. (Teepee)
